

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A method of controlling fluid flow in an interconnected channel structure having at least three ports, comprising:

actively controlling the electric potential at the at least three ports to create differences in potential sufficient to cause fluid to move through the interconnected channel structure in a controlled manner.